

A high-angle photograph of a dark brown composite deck. The deck is composed of rectangular planks arranged in a herringbone pattern. In the lower right corner, there is a square fire pit filled with light-colored gravel. Inside the fire pit, a round, dark metal fire bowl contains several pieces of wood. The background is dark, suggesting a night or low-light setting.

WHY FRAMEWORK PREPARATION IS SO IMPORTANT

Poor ventilation and low ground height as well as incorrect timber can lead to rot in your frame work, not to mention termites. It is crucial for all framework to be at least H3 (H4 for ground level decks) Treated Pine and in some cases a steel or aluminum subframe is required for longevity.

Framework with minimum airflow or contact with the ground will rot out within 5-6 years. We always allow plenty of airflow and use correct framework for each specific job applying joist protection on all joist and bearers. This is something you do not see but will thanks us in years to come!

Shown here are just a few examples of what can happen, unfortunately we see these on a daily basis!

"Thank you very much Sean and Chris for completing our deck and outdoor steps project to such a high standard. Everything has been finished perfectly, with a wonderful flowing effect from the top of the stairs down to a completely revitalised lower-level deck. Sean and Chris ensured we were kept totally up to date as the project went along and we are thrilled that the overall result more than meets expectations. They are focused, friendly and very professional in going about their work. Highly recommended."

Peter - Copacabana

"Sean and Chris were two of the best and nicest tradies I've worked with during a very long 4 year home reno process. I love the finished look of the Trex Deck (did have a few doubts) it might look very 'plastic', but no it looks fabulous. What's more, the work in preparing the sub-structure before laying the boards was meticulously carried out. The guys were punctual every day, communicated with me to confirm any decisions to be made from beginning to end of project. I want to thank them both for their attention to detail and providing me with a next to no maintenance (I'll still have to hose it down occasionally) deck which is exactly what I was looking for!! Would happily recommend their company to anyone looking to have a deck installed."

"Platinum Decks constructed a superb Trex deck at our property. From the initial meeting onsite at quotation up until the last day after completion Sean and Chris were by far the most professional and courteous of any contractor we have encountered. Their work was flawless and even when they found minimal flaws they fixed them without prompting. Not only was their work impeccable but their personal conduct onsite was genuine and sincere. I cant recommend this company strong enough if you are wanting a quality improvement to your property. Well done."

"Thank you so much Sean and Chris for the professionalism and courtesy you showed in the 3 days you were rebuilding my deck, stairs, front landing and rear entry. Every measure was taken in ensuring the safety of my little people before during and after the build. Never have I had such clean tradies which was much appreciated. My grocery delivery man also said thanks for building something so safe that it was nice not walking on "wobbly steps". My family and neighbours love the decking product and without hesitation I have given them your company name."
